

NEW DISCOVERY – ANDREW D. BASIAGO – THE BEETLE LADY

The bluish humanoid form in the lower left quadrant of this NASA image possesses the bulbous head of a human being and the lower extremities of a multi-appendaged arachnid or crustacean, hence its sobriquet The Beetle Lady. Similar life forms with human heads and insect bodies have been found elsewhere on Mars. It is not known whether this form is a life form, fossil, or statue.